SAFETY TIPS

SPRINGTIME ELECTRICAL SAFETY

- Keep all long-handled tools out of reach of children so they will not be tempted to reach for or accidentally hit an overhead power line.
- Pay attention to trees and power lines. Do not plant trees near them, and if there is a tree that has grown into a power line, make sure to call a professional to trim the tree.

SMPA Response to COVID-19 Reveals Unexpected Positives

“THE GOOD THINGS OF PROSPERITY ARE TO BE WISHED; BUT THE GOOD THINGS THAT BELONG TO ADVERSITY ARE TO BE ADMIRIED.”

Whether or not you were surprised by the unprecedented effects that the spread of COVID-19 (Coronavirus) has had on our region, you'll probably agree that they have substantially upset how we interact and conduct business.

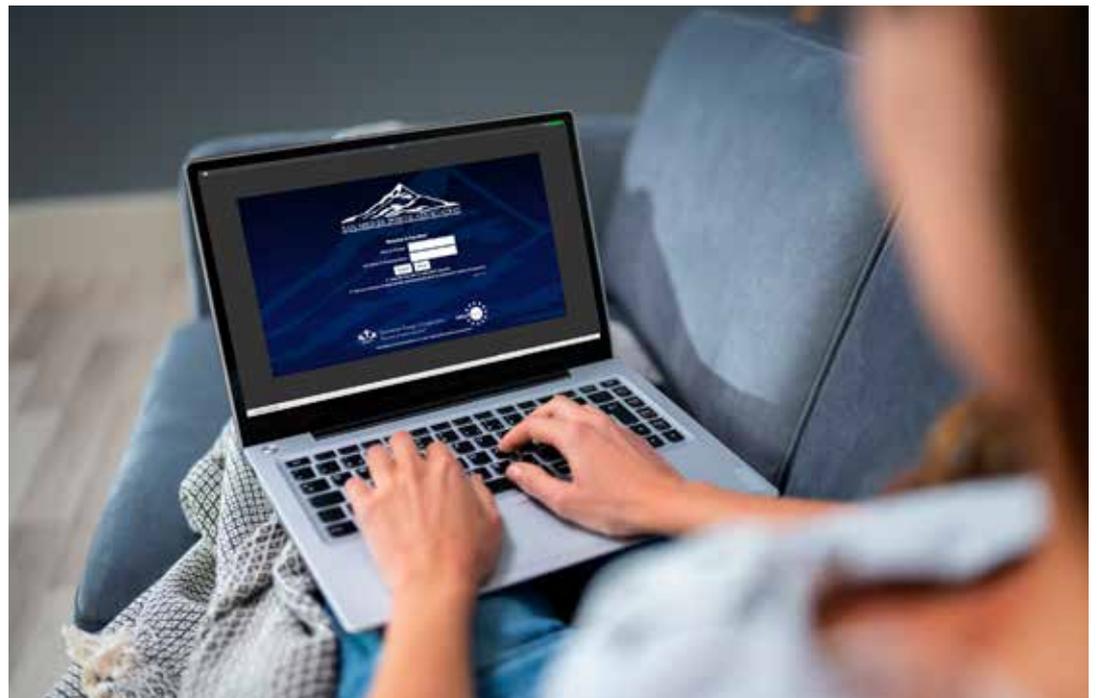

To the greatest extent possible, San Miguel Power Association (SMPA) has worked to ensure that electric power is NOT one of those things that has gotten upset. Thanks to a well-defined crisis response plan, SMPA staff and crews have been able to adapt to the unprecedented demands of social distancing, while prioritizing tasks to maintain safe, reliable power for all members. That is our mission, and our mission drives everything we do.

The pursuit of that mission through widespread economic hardship, and the need for social distancing is now beginning to create a new reality. Surprisingly, not all the traits of this reality are bad. For instance, the need for a virtual meeting space has caused us to discover and test innovative new software that brings benefits that will likely outlive the coronavirus.

Another outcome has been a show of solidarity and compassion from utilities across the state, like SMPA, that pledged not to shut off service for nonpayment during the crisis, even before that move was mandated by the Governor. Further benefits may appear as certain members contribute to a relief fund that can help keep those who cannot pay right now, from getting too far behind.

Still more benefits may be realized by members who, due to the circumstances, are trying our remote pay systems for the first time, including the convenient and powerful SmartHub app. For those still adjusting to our automated phone system or to our mobile or online app, SmartHub, please know that we're still here to help—just as we've always been. Just call (970) 626-5549, or (970) 864-7311 during regular business hours and one of our staff members will do whatever they can to ensure that the technology is working for you.

Like all adversity, the coronavirus phenomenon has caused hardship and suffering, but it can also serve to make our membership and our cooperative stronger and more adaptable.

New Community Focus Policy Governs How SMPA Gives

As a not-for-profit cooperative, San Miguel Power Association (SMPA) is proud of the contributions it has been making to community and charitable initiatives year after year. However, in reviewing SMPA's donations over those years, one can't help noticing a trend.

Back in 2015, SMPA donated about $20,500 to worthy causes. In that year, 19 organizations requested funds and the median donation was $250.

Last year, more than 30 organizations requested donation monies from SMPA and the median request was for $1,000. In total, SMPA gave out just over $30,000 to community groups in 2019 and an additional $30,000 match, with help from Basin Electric, CoBank and Tri-State G & T. In October of that year, SMPA had to stop considering requests because the donations budget for the year had been depleted.

It became clear that the process needed to be modified to handle volume. For this reason, SMPA has rolled out a new policy for handling community and charitable requests. It's called our Community Focus Policy.

Under the new policy, donation requests will be reviewed on a quarterly basis. Each quarter will have a fixed budget and requestors may apply in the quarter that is most appropriate for their event or project.

San Miguel Power Sharing Success Grant to Aid Economic Development in Silverton and San Juan County

In 2015, it was the Gold King Mine spill and subsequent superfund site designation. In the winter of 2017/18, unusually low snowfall paved the way for the 416 fire in the summer. That was followed, in the winter of 2018/19, by historic snowfall and avalanches, which is now followed by a global pandemic that threatens businesses worldwide. After four consecutive years of extraordinary hits to local tourism activity, businesses in Silverton and San Juan County could use a little help.

Through it all, the San Juan Development Association (SJDA) has been fighting the good fight, collaborating on numerous community initiatives such as: the Silverton Area Trails Plan, Census 2020, Kendall Mountain Ski Area Expansion Plan and the Blair Street Revitalization Project. Now, the SJDA has their sights set on economic growth. Dubbed the "Silverton Relocation and Growth Initiative for Businesses and Residents," this new initiative sets forth to reveal the lifestyle and business benefits that a prospective businesses would enjoy by starting up in the Silverton area.

The project will build a website and professional prospectus designed to appeal to potential business ventures. Congratulations to the SJDA for securing $2,000 from San Miguel Power Association (SMPA) and an additional $4,000 from our cooperative partners, CoBank and Basin Electric through our Sharing Success Grant.
